

Fair Enough

Men kid women about the trunk-load of stuff they carry around in a handbag, but a smart woman would point an accusing finger at the man's world of the garage — which is so full of junk he can hardly get the car inside. My garage, however, is clean as a whistle. When I built it I took the precaution of putting a storehouse alongside. What's in it is out of sight, which is well enough — for you couldn't get through it with the aid of the Russian Army.

Perpetual Motion

The Second Hoover Commission is starting off on its task of persuading the federal government to cut down on inefficiency, duplication and waste — and it is high time, according to the current bulletin of the Arkansas Public Expenditure Council.

America's population has grown 55 times since 1788, we are told, but the number of government employees has increased 372 times — and the cost of operating government has multiplied by 17,431! If you averaged out the national debt among all the people a family of four would owe $6,624. Bosh someone else will pay it, not us! You think. But you are paying it — in high prices, long after the shooting war has ended.

And here is the danger that threatens the people when they turn stupid and inattentive: Millions of men's wages are geared to escalator contracts that provide for a pay increase each time the cost of living inches upward. Government increase its debt and tax load, therefore the cost of living rises a little, and along comes the escalator hike in wages, and the cost of living goes up much more. What you are looking at is the 1956 version of that phoney that used to entertain the Dark Ages — the theory of perpetual motion. If you trust it you are stupid. But if you are intelligent you know it for what it is — the prim-rose path that has destroyed every nation in its time.

4 Killed, 4 Hurt in Crash of Air Force Bomber

DENVER (AP) — Four men were killed and four persons were injured today when a twin-engine bomber crashed and exploded between two houses south of Lowry Air Force Base.

The B25, enroute from McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash., to Panama City, Fla., apparently lost power on takeoff. The pilot radioed for an emergency landing shortly after leaving the field where the plane had stopped to refuel.

The names of the dead and injured were withheld.

The falling plane narrowly missed a mother and her two small children. Parts of the shattered craft smashed into a parked car near the houses.

Lowry Base Hospital said one of the four injured was in critical condition. The injured included a member of the Women's Air Force.

Navy Wants to Scrap or Sell 107 Warships

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Navy is asking Congress for permission to sell, scrap or even sink—107 of its old ships, including some men o'war which helped conquer the mighty Japanese Navy in World War II.

Among the results listed for disposal are two pre-Pearl Harbor Tennessee—10 cruisers, 10 escort aircraft carriers, and the carrier Enterprise. The "Big E," as it was affectionately known by thousands of sailors, boasted one of the great combat records of World War II.

A dozen submarines also are listed for disposal. Most of the other vessels are landing ships and other amphibious craft.

All the ships, the Navy said, are currently receiving "minimum maintenance" as part of the Navy's reserve "mothball" fleet.

Undersecretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. asked Congress for permission to dispose of the vessels. He made the request in letters to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Speaker Sam Rayburn. He said it is "no longer economical" for the Navy to keep the ships.

Gates sent Congress a draft bill which would let the Navy sell the ships to a "friendly foreign government" for defense purposes, scrap them, or dispose of them by sinking at sea, if other means of disposal are not feasible or economically sound.

Tells Plain, Middle-Aged Men Not to Give Up Hope — But How Many Have a Voice Like Weede

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—All men who have given up hope of success in love because they are middle-aged, paunchy and bald can take heart from Robert Weede.

Weede, Broadway's newest matinee idol, is neither young nor tall nor dark nor handsome.

He is stocky and plump-featured, he is admittedly middle-aged, and he has freckles on an indisputably bald head.

Far from being defects, these assets — plus a beguiling smile and a fine voice — won him overnight one of the year's greatest successes in the theater.

Weede, one of America's best baritone voices, was a Broadway unknown when he opened a few weeks ago in Frank Loesser's "The Most Happy Fella," hailed by critics as America's finest folk opera since "Porgy and Bess."

He played the role of Tony, an

Salesman Charged With Murder

PINE BLUFF, (AP) — David Leon Everett, 25, former employee of a paper company here, was charged yesterday with first degree murder in the death of T. O. Alvis, 67-year-old used car dealer.

Before Alvis died last Sunday, Everett had been charged with robbery and assault to kill. Alvis was found shot and severely beaten near Pine Bluff May 15.

Police said that Everett was arrested a few days later near Cairo, Ill., he was driving an automobile which Alvis had taken from his lot to demonstrate to a prospective buyer.

Conviction of Dr. Sheppard Is Upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has upheld the wife-murder conviction of Dr. Sam Sheppard. His only recourse now to gain freedom is the U. S. Supreme Court.

Ohio's highest tribunal, in a 5-2 majority opinion yesterday, dimmed the hopes of the 32-year-old Cleveland osteopath for a new trial.

Sheppard got the news through the "grapevine" at Ohio Penitentiary, where he is serving a life sentence for the July 4, 1954, bludgeoning slaying of his 31-year-old pregnant wife Marilyn.

Dr. Sam, as newspapers had referred to him during his sensational trial, "fastidiously maintained his innocence."

Sheppard's appeal mentioned 29 alleged errors made by the trial court. Three of these, the majority opinion said, were stressed in all arguments.

The Supreme Court said no two of the three contentions: That a change of venue should have been granted because of widespread publicity in Cleveland about the murder.

Segregation Court Test Next Month

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A federal court test of segregation here may be tried next month.

Federal Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith, Ark., has asked attorneys for both sides to suggest dates after July 1.

Little Rock School Board attorneys said they could be ready almost any time. One of the four attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People indicated sometime in July would be acceptable.

Wiley A. Branton of Pine Bluff and three other NAACP attorneys are asking for immediate total integration of Little Rock schools.

They are challenging a school board plan which calls for gradual integration—possibly beginning at the high school level in 1957.

School Supt. Virgil Blossom, in an address to the Pulaski County Bar Association yesterday, said the Little Rock school would provide for voluntary segregation with each school assigned an attendance area. He said white pupils living in a predominantly Negro attendance area would be permitted to transfer to "white" schools. Negroes in largely-white areas permitted to transfer to "Negro" schools.

"There will be no integration of teachers," Blossom said.

4-H Club Forestry Camp Ends With Selection of Delegates to Various State Meetings

The fourth annual two-day 4-H Club Forestry Camp, attended by 108 boys and 12 adult leaders, was completed yesterday with the recognition for some of the youth for leadership and achievement in the Camp program.

Gene Evans of Columbus and Ronnie Burke of DeAnn were selected to represent Hempstead County 4-H Clubs at the State Forestry Camp at Camp Couchdale near Hot Springs the week of June 18 to 22. Alternates selected were: Bernard Webb of Columbus and Don Lloyd of Hope.

Joseph Rowe of Hope and Jack Ruggles are to represent the Hempstead County 4-H Clubs in forestry and conservation at 4-H Club Week on the campus of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville during the week of July 23-27.

Juniors recognized by the forestry camp instructors to receive 4-H Club T-shirts for superior camp work in the nine phases of camp activity were: Eddy Byers, Henry Moss Rowe, John Pierce, Don Oglesby, Bengue Waller, Richard McMurtrey, Jerry Wilson, Roy Rowe and J. W. Self.

Each member in the forestry camp attended nine 45-minute demonstration sections under the direction of the following instructors:

District Foresters of the Arkansas Forestry Commission: Buster Denton of Delight, Ed Waddell of Stamps and Curtis Pauley of Ashdown; Game and Fish Commission Representative Robert J. Parker of the Game Restoration Division in Little Rock and Lester Wade of the Federal Cooperative Division; Minister William E. Morris of the First Christian Church; Veterinarian Herbert Rogers; Experiment Station Director Cecil Bittle; Extension Soils Specialist Woody Miley and Extension Timber Products Specialist Dean R. Wallace of Little Rock; Associate County Agent J. B. Williams and Odell Luck of Gunter farms.

The major theme of the forestry camp was summarized by Charles Byerley, 12 year old member of the camp, speaking for his grandfather. Alf Gunter before the camp assembly when he said:

"More than a twentieth of our woodland is burned and damaged every year. Each year enough trees are destroyed to supply the building needs of a city of over a quarter of a million people. This little pine tree will grow and be strong and sturdy if we will help to keep fires from it. It will furnish us jobs of different kinds for us to support our families. Ninety-nine per cent of the fires are caused by man and there are almost ten million acres burned a year."

"The fires kill animals and people, it ruins our picnic areas, it burns homes, timber and industry it ruins watersheds that supply water and power and protection from floods. So forest fire losses come out of our pockets. Trees are living things. They are growing wood for our use. If we keep fire out of the woods and let young trees keep growing, it will help us have green forest, clear streams, lumber for homes, and food for our animal friends."

County Agent Oliver L. Adams wishes to thank all of the parents and others who assisted with the forestry camp and give special thanks to Gene Smith of the Hotel Barlow who prepared food; Alf and Warren Gunter for supplying the camp site and many services; Gunter Lumber Company and Graydon Anthony Lumber Company for financial assistance; Bruner-Ivory Handle Company for transportation; The Hope Star, Radio Station KXAR; and County Judge U. G. Garrett.

Predicts Demos to Wage, Rough, Dirty Campaign

By ED CRAGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's press secretary today predicted the Democrats will wage a rough, tough and dirty campaign this year.

James C. Hagerty told a campaign conference of Citizens for Eisenhower the Democrats have no real issue and so "they are going to throw everything at us including the kitchen sink."

"It's going to be rough. It's going to be tough," said Hagerty who appeared on a panel discussion with two other presidential aides, Wilton B. Parsons and Dr. Gabriel Hauge.

An earlier speaker, Roichard Tobin, public relations director for the volunteer group, said the developments in race relations should be used as "major ammunition" in the campaign ahead.

These talks came in advance of a scheduled closing address by Vice President Nixon.

Hagerty declared the Democrats are using a "shotgun approach" — that, attacking everything in sight because of what he said is lack of a real issue.

He said the Republicans can counteract this, however, by giving the public the facts. And the main fact, he said, that Eisenhower is the "greatest force for peace in this world."

Hagerty took issue with critics who have said the Geneva conference was a failure. Calling the 1955 meeting a "very great success" he said it dispelled the idea spread by the Communists that the United States was "the big bully with the H-bomb" and ready to drop it on a whim.

"I haven't heard that since Geneva," he said.

Farm Prices Show an 8% Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices of farm products, jumping 8 per cent in the last five months, have recovered to their levels of a year ago.

A 3 per cent increase between mid-April and mid-May — the largest for a single month in a long time — was reported yesterday by the Agriculture Department.

Farm price levels took on major political significance as they declined steadily last year. Democrats criticized the Eisenhower administration's farm policies and predicted Democratic victories in the Farm Belt as a result. Republicans have watched happily the price increases this year.

The mid-May price level still was 22 per cent below the high point reached in February 1951, when the Korean War sent prices up sharply.

There was no indication whether the increase this year will continue. Farm prices normally rise during the winter and late spring and tend to drop off as new crops are harvested.

Much of the last month's gain in prices came from a 6 per cent increase in prices of meat animals. Officials said indications are that livestock prices will average higher this year than last because of a cut in production, especially in hogs.

While farmers' prices were rising 3 per cent during the month, the department said, their costs increased about three fourths of 1 per cent.

British Refuse to Change Peace Plan

BY WILLIAM N. OATS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain refused today to rewrite its proposal for further peace.

Cup J., drove five miles to an Arab warning that in its present form it would be self-defeating.

The U.N. Security Council scheduled further debate today on the British resolution, which asked that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld "continue his good offices" to prevent war between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

The term "good offices" was the stumbling block. The Arabs want it qualified to prevent Hammarskjöld from working for the final peace settlement which the Arabs have refused to reach with Israel. The Arabs are willing for Hammarskjöld to work only for enforcement of the military provisions of the 1949 armistice.

Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain told reporters he would "make some clarifications" in a speech about the resolution. But Dixon said he would not amend the resolution. Djafal Abdo of Iran said that unless it was changed, he would propose amendments.

The Rev. H. A. F. Ault, pastor of Spring Hill Methodist Church, Mrs. Ault and Tommie Lee Brint will attend the annual Church conference at Hot Springs June 9-10.

Woman, 106, Likes a Strong Drink

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Wine, song and dance are still part of the life of Mrs. Tira Gonzalez. But if you want to live to be 106, as she has, she recommends something stronger than wine now and then.

The wine should be drunk before breakfast.

"Later in the day you should drink something that rasps the throat like tequila or mescal," says the lively old lady. Tequila and mescal are highly intoxicating liquors made from cactus or cactus-like plants.

"I get mad every time someone offers me beer. That insipid liquid is fit only for sissies and burros."

Steel Firms Study Union Proposals

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Representatives of the nation's three largest steel-producing companies who are participating in unprecedented joint contract talks with the United Steelworkers took time today to study the union's proposals.

An unexpected recess in contract negotiations was called after a three-hour meeting yesterday between the union and U. S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Republic Steel. A scheduled bargaining session today was canceled.

Negotiations will resume in New York next Wednesday.

Ranked highest in the union package are a "substantial" wage increase, a layoff pay plan, increased insurance benefits to be paid by the companies, and premium pay for Saturday and Sunday work. Cost of the package has not been revealed.

The spokesman said the firm is interested in the paper mill industry because of the large acreages of soft and hard woods which it owns in Arkansas, Louisiana and Alabama.

Armed Forces Must Be Team, Says Radford

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford told Naval Academy graduates today the armed forces "must think as a team, and when necessary fight as a team."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff made no reference in his prepared address to the renewed rivalry among the armed forces over their roles and missions.

Radford himself was at one time a vigorous partisan of the Navy cause in the Navy-Air Force controversy over the relative merits of carriers and long-range, land-based bombers.

Three of the four services will share this year's class of academy graduates. Of 674 receiving commissions, 454 were headed for the Navy, 169 for the Air Force and 51 for the Marine Corps.

Cases of Measles Show Big Increase

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The number of new cases of measles reported in Arkansas last week was nearly six times greater than the total cases reported for the same week in 1955. The Arkansas State Board of Health yesterday said that last week's measles count was 507 cases, compared to 77 cases reported for the 21st week last year. Last week's total also was nearly 200 per cent above the five-year median of 213 cases.

No new cases of polio were reported in the state last week, leaving the year's total at 13 cases. The polio count at this time last year was 27 cases.

Pine Bluff May Get a Third Paper Mill

EL DORADO (AP)—The Murphy Corp. has taken options on 800 acres near Pine Bluff, Ark., as a possible site for paper mill. It was reported here today.

Two other firms, Dierks Forest, Inc. and International Paper Co., have started construction on paper mills in the Pine Bluff area.

A Murphy spokesman said the El Dorado firm—which has assets of about 70 million dollars—is interested in the paper mill field but as yet has no concrete plans.

The corporation is engaged mainly in oil and gas exploration and development. It operates timber, farm and other enterprises through a subsidiary, the Delta Firm and Timber Co.

Charles H. Murphy Jr., of El Dorado is president of the corporation.

The spokesman said the firm is interested in the paper mill industry because of the large acreages of soft and hard woods which it owns in Arkansas, Louisiana and Alabama.

Unions Fight Over Control at Hospital

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two unions at the controversy-ridden State Hospital are engaged in a membership fight; it was reported today.

The Arkansas Democrat said the membership fight came to light following the suspension of Joe Copeland, president of the CIO Civil Employees Union at the hospital.

Mrs. Bob Fowler, personnel director, said, however, Copeland's suspension had "nothing to do with his union activities."

She said the suspension was ordered on recommendation of the State Board of Health for alleged insubordination and an uncooperative attitude.

Charm Clark, president of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 100, confirmed the report that the two unions had engaged in a skirmish over prospective members.

He denied that the competition for members was heated but said that "quite naturally when there are two unions with the same objectives there is some rivalry."

He added that a merger of the AF of L union with Copeland's CIO group was in process on the national level.

Clark refused to reveal the exact number of hospital employees his union represents but said the membership number "several hundred."

The paper said in a dispatch from Monaco the former Miss Kelly consulted a Spanish gynecologist during her recent stay in Madrid who confirmed that she is expecting a child.

The newspaper attributed the report to sources close to the Monaco court. It said an official announcement on it was not expected before June.

Miss Kelly was married to Prince Rainier III on Monaco last April 19.

Baptists Are Talking Over Integration

By E. L. CAMPBELL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Southern Baptists were asked today to apply the principle of Christian equality to the racial segregation problem.

"What we do about the racial situation in our home communities will be a help or hindrance to those who represent us in the cause of Christ among the peoples of the world," said B. B. Maston, professor of social ethics at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex., in a prepared address to the Southern Baptist Convention.

Maston's appeal followed a warning to the convention last night by evangelist Billy Graham that "the world is on life, especially here in the South."

Graham, speaking to more than 12,000, said the segregation issue must be faced with courage, prayer, humility, love, and above all, patience.

Speaking on the same platform was Graham, Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), chairman of the SBC's Christian Life Commission, urged that Baptists "attempt to create an atmosphere in our communities in which the problem can be solved" without conflict.

Repeated discussion of segregation by speakers posed the question whether an attempt would be made to have the convention adopt a resolution to take other formal action on the issue.

SBC President C. C. Warren, Charlotte, N. C., in his opening address yesterday pointed out the convention two years ago expressed its approval of the Supreme Court decision banning segregation in public schools.

Maston pointed out in his speech that prior to the Civil War Southern Baptist churches were "integrated" with Negroes outnumbering whites in many instances. "Congregations were divided after the Negroes were emancipated," he said. "Since then the SBC has called for a continuing, although admittedly inadequate and inconsistent program for Negroes."

'Bus Stop' Is About to the End of Line

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Bus Stop" is just about wheezing to the end of the line.

The principal photography on the picture is finished and a few odds and ends are being put together this week. This intelligence is offered for those who want to keep tabs on the movements of Marilyn Monroe. Judging from the dearth of propaganda in the nation's magazines, their number is legion.

"Bus Stop" has been one of the more bizarre of film projects, partly because of the changed status of Monroe. She left the lot a year ago a contract payer and returned a corporation.

Being incorporated she naturally needs officers. Most notable is Milton Greene, a magazine photographer who now acts as butler for president Monroe. Vice president Greene is in constant attendance to satisfy requests and messages for Monroe. He in turn has his own staff, who satisfy requests and messages for Greene.

Getting to Monroe is as easy as reaching Howard Hughes, though not as hard as seeking out Greta Garbo. One Hollywood columnist traveled all the way to Phoenix without seeing her. Since her illness, which was genuine, she has been incommunicado to the press.

The picture is presided by the biggest magazine splash in recent memory. Besides, you don't have to publicize Monroe. She seems to have an uncommon knack for attracting the headlines, no matter what she does.

According to various of her biographers, Marilyn will be leaving for New York as soon as she finishes up her work in the picture. She is working on dubbing this week, and that should end her chores. She plans to leave for London around July 15 to begin her project with Laurence Olivier. "The. Sleep. No. Wake. A combination" she publicized a publicity man. "Any you know how to make the British press can be. I can see the head-

Tall Drifter

By W. EDMUNDS CLAUSSEN

THE STORY: Frank Ude has learned that Jean Cash is owner of a horse spread known as the Tatter C. She offers Frank a job on her ranch, but Frank owes allegiance to her brother, Emmett, with whom she is not on good terms. Besides, Frank does not trust women.

Chapter X

The bartender was pockmarked, with russet-colored hair, and eager enquiring eyes that had not missed Lily's welcome. When he had finished with his study Frank asked, "Steve Norring?"

"My partner," the bartender acknowledged. "I'm Jack Bamford. You'll find Mr. Norring at his bank."

The peculiar intonation of respect, almost of reverence, in the word "mister" arched Frank's eyebrows. He gave no other sign of recognition of Bamford's salaam but he knew now what he had sensed about Norring's importance was starting to bear out. Bamford was still watching him curiously when the man on his left asked:

"You, looking for somebody?"

Frank shook his head. Their curiosity was starting to pull out of hand. This crowd would never let him out of the Alhambra without testing him. But their hostility had no question to rest in his mind; Norring's faction was not working with Emmett. Several factions were here. In Cash-town "poised to strike at each other's throat. The saloonman took his bottle, returning it to the bartender. His eyes flicked to the man beside Frank.

"Milo, you better let him alone."

The man the bartender spoke to was grinning. He was a big man with great shoulders and a scar across his forehead.

There was a tone to the saloon-man's voice that Frank considered false. He was leading Milo on. They were building this up, trying to trap him into a fight.

Frank said testily, "Who would I be looking for?"

Milo let his glance shift in a swift movement toward Bamford that telegraphed its message to Frank. These two knew about Yates. But did they know where Yates was hidden?

"How would I know what you're hunting for?" Milo growled.

"You're too curious," Frank said. "Your nose might get caught in a trap."

Milo's wickedly harsh words caught him abruptly. "You're taking up too much counter space!" From the corner of his eye he saw Milo's gun flashing downward. The next instant terrific pain telegraphed itself to his brain.

Frank thought the fingers of his left hand were broken.

With the numbing paralysis of shock still clutching him he was vaguely aware of Milo sneaking after the gun in his belt. He acted without direct thought, smashing his shoulder upward into Milo's face and shoving backward away from the bar.

Still shuddering from Milo's punishment he wheeled, facing the man squarely. Milo's head was still bent backward from his crack on the jaw when Frank hurled his glass. It caught the man directly in the eye. He let loose a howl of rage and then Frank leaped. His left hand was useless, the pain cascading up his arm in waves, his fingers paralyzed. The peculiar intuition came to him that this was one of the men that had raved them on the McHenry trail. Perhaps it had been Milo's bullet that had killed Rambaut.

Milo faded back under his advance, fear for the first time in his face. He took a wild swing at Frank that missed, and while he was still off balance Frank brought his knee sharply into the heavy belly. While the air was still escaping in a grunt Frank hit him in the face. Milo's head snapped back. Frank's fist came away smeared with blood and Milo's nose spouted red. Again Milo swung at him, this time knocking Frank against the bar. With his good hand he reached Milo's sweat-dampened hair, drawing his head violently downward. Now with the elbow of his bad hand he raked a swabbing blow across Milo's face. Then, just as quickly, he let go Milo's hair. His right fist pulled back and shot forward with telling power, connecting under Milo's chin. The man went down as though poled and lay in an ugly posture. Frank drew a deep breath.

Now when his gaze struck Bamford he caught the incredulity on the saloonman's face. Evidently Milo had a reputation as considerable of a fighter, and the fact Frank was still on his feet was a surprise.

"Something else eating you?" Frank asked Bamford.

The saloonman's eyes widened

UN Calls Off Supervisory Group in Korea

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The U. N. Command today clipped the wings of the four-nation commission supervising the Korean armistice, charging the Communists have used it as a shield for an illegal buildup of arms in North Korea.

Commission members were ordered to halt their operations in South Korea and pull back into the neutral zone.

Britain disclosed the 16 nations making up the U. N. Command, which is headed by the United States, have turned down a new proposal from Red China for a conference to unite Korea and withdraw foreign troops.

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The U. N. Command said today it is calling off all operations of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in South Korea and pulling in a blistering statement accusing the North Korean Communists of armistice violations and the Czech and Polish members of the commission of covering up illegal Red activities.

U. S. Maj. Gen. R. G. Gard charged the Communists had used the commission "as a blind" behind which to illegally move jet fighters and other war material into North Korea.

"You are no longer privileged to take advantage of those provisions of the armistice agreement which have been violated and frustrated by your conduct and that of the Czech and Polish members of the commission," Gard declared.

His statement was made at a meeting of the Joint Military Armistice Commission. The North Korean Communists denied Gard's accusations.

Gard, senior U. N. delegate to the armistice commission, said the Communists had never at any time since the armistice reported bringing combat aircraft into North Korea.

"This is particularly conspicuous," he asserted, "since your side now maintains in North Korea between 400 and 500 such aircraft... whereas you had none at that area at the time the armistice was signed."

Gard charged Czech and Polish officers with "fundamental perversion" of the commission, and said the U. N. Command was entitled to take steps necessary to protect itself from the consequences of such unwarranted conduct.

North Korean Col. Lo In Hi, in denying Gard's charges, said: "Your side has unmasked its attempt to wreck the armistice agreement you will be held responsible for all the consequences arising from this unilateral action."

The supervisory commission was set up by the armistice which ended the Korean fighting in 1953. There are four members of the commission — Sweden and Switzerland and the Soviet bloc nations Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The United States early this month told its Korean war allies steps should be taken soon to abolish the commission. Both the United States and South Korea have long charged that the Communist North Koreans have prevented the truce team from working effectively to check armistice violations.

Gard said the suspension of commission operations in South Korea would remain in effect until the Reds stopped illegal introduction of war material and "corrected" reports purporting to show there had been no armistice violations. He added that the U. N. Command would continue to "adhere scrupulously" to all other provisions of the armistice agreement.

Racial Riot Ends Terror Voyage

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A holiday outing ended in a voyage of terror for passengers aboard a Lake Erie amusement park vessel last night as teen-agers rioted aboard the ship.

Reporters aboard the crowded Canadiana for the 15-mile trip from Crystal Beach amusement park in Ontario to their city described it as "a nightmare of flashing knives and sobbing, frightened passengers."

Rioting aboard the Canadiana flared up after a day of disorders by white and Negro youths at the amusement park.

Cpl. J. E. Legate of the Ontario provincial police at Crystal Beach was quoted by the Buffalo Courier-Express as saying the disorders were "strictly racial."

But F. L. Hall, general manager of the amusement park, said the disturbance there was "not a race riot."

Six persons were treated for injuries at hospitals in Buffalo and Port Erie, Ont., and at least 10 others were treated for minor injuries at a first aid station at the park.

Provincial police arrested nine Buffalo youths at the beach. Five were Negroes and four whites.

More Officials May Be Invited by Russians

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some informed U. S. officials believe Moscow will follow up its successful bid to Gen. Malin F. Twining with invitations to other American military leaders to visit Russia.

Members of the Soviet high command may be asked to come to the United States in return.

Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles announced yesterday that "with the authorization of the President" Twining had accepted an invitation to a Soviet Aviation Day celebration June 24.

Twining, Air Force chief of staff, will be accompanied by several subordinate officers.

Quarles said the decision to accept had been approved also by Secretary of Defense Wilson and Secretary of State Dulles, who is presently on a 10-day vacation.

The Russian Embassy was advised of the decision.

Thus ended half a dozen days of the decision.

The decision for Twining to accept was speeded by a weekend report from Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in Moscow making clear the bid was a firm one. This indicated that the Soviet government was not interested for the moment in inviting other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for a tour of Russian military establishments.

Comments from the White House and Defense Department showed they would welcome a broadened invitation, but when it became evident that this would not be promptly forthcoming the decision was made for Twining to accept.

As a matter of policy, it appears that Soviet moves for increasing military contacts with

Man's Body Taken From White River

BATESVILLE, (AP) — The body of a 22-year-old man who drowned Saturday in White River near here was found yesterday.

Chief of Police Jimmy Mitchell said a game warden, Dale Apple, and Norman Gray, both of Batesville, discovered the body of Troy Hallmark of Grubbs, Ark., about one and a half miles below the Batesville dam.

Hallmark, son of Mrs. Lizzie Hallmark of Grubbs, drowned when he tried to swim the river. Search parties had hunted almost continuously for his body. Chief Mitchell said.

Washington, the U. S. capital, has five million visitors a year.

The United States have confronted Eisenhower and his Chief advisers with a choice of difficult and risky alternatives.

The central problem is this: 1. How can the United States enter into friendly military relations with Russia without causing its allies and the free world generally to lower its guard and relax vigilance against Soviet communism? 2. On the other hand, can the United States afford to cold-shoulder Soviet moves for more normal relations in the military field without appearing to other countries to have a kind of Iron Curtain of its own?

Eisenhower himself is described as convinced that more and closer American-Russian contact, and in themselves desirable in the interest of peace.

Sunday School Lesson

By William Gilroy, D. D.

In these days of air planes and autos, it is a fascinating thing to realize how extensively people travelled in the days when all forms of transport were slow, difficult, uncomfortable, and often dangerous.

When the Riel Rebellion broke out in Western Canada in 1870 the greatest problem confronting Colonel Wolesley was to get his regular troops and militia from Ontario and Quebec to the scene of action. From the lake head at Port Arthur onward, six hundred miles of untracked wilderness intervened. In the American Revolutionary War General Washington must have traveled enough to tire a hardy man. During the Civil War, railroading and telegraph had advanced enough to make travel and communication easier. But in recent reading I have been impressed with the immense distances covered by political and military leaders, on slow and uncomfortable trains.

It is not easy to picture all this when one considers the great advancement of today. But travel in the more ancient times is all the more impressive among the ancient travellers one of the greatest and most intrepid undoubtedly was the Apostle Paul. It would take much time to figure the approximate mileage of St. Paul's journey. In a rough survey I estimate that he must have travelled at least five thousand miles, and I am not sure but the figure would be nearer ten thousand.

We can trace much of Paul's going from place to place. But it is somewhat remarkable that, of all that travel the only vivid account is of the sea journey and shipwreck, in Acts 27. How often did Paul travel On foot? Or on horseback? By camel? In caravan with other travellers, as on the famous journey to Damascus, when he saw the vision that transformed his life.

The story of all the happened to Paul, and much concerning his Master as well, would fill many New Testaments.

But the important thing concerning both Paul and his Master is what they did. Concerning Paul the great questions are not of the how, why, or where; the important thing is the purpose of the Gospel urge that sent Paul from place to place, and that brought him through Asia Minor to Europe as the first great missionary to give Christianity its worldwide heritage of truth and grace. Yet the most impressive thing concerning Paul is his unfinished task. It is unfinished in the area of his greatest achievement, in the Middle East where inter-racial, interreligious and sectional strife belie the reality of that life and society in which Paul proclaimed, "there is neither Jew nor Greek, barbarian Scythian, bond nor free; but Christ is all and in all" (Col. 3:11).

It is unfinished, too in the world at large. Despite all Christian progress, evil and violence, frosted by ignorance, from the Christian gospel of love and grace with aggressive and persistent power. The world needs new Pauls, and many of them.

Bridey Brings New Film Land Party Craze

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bridey Murphy has brought a new party craze to Hollywood — hypnotism. Toast of the town after only six weeks here is a Scottish-born Canadian named Bill McGonigle. At various parties he has hypnotized Kathryn Grayson into telling of another life as an English housewife, Jane Powell into persisting with her diet and phyllis Kirk into giving up sweets and cigarettes.

Hollywood embraces fads with vigor—author Gaylord Hauser's diet and scramble struck hard here. So it was only natural that the movie folk should become intrigued with by hypnotism. A professional entertainer, McGonigle is hypnotizing notable nightly at Mocambo. Volumes on hypnotism have been snapped up at the book stores.

McGonigle, 34, has been invited to 15 exclusive parties in recent weeks and, to hear him, tell it, he has been a sensation. Among his amazing achievements was shutting up Mickey Rooney.

The obstreperous Mick was always getting into the act while McGonigle was hypnotizing others at a recent party. So the hypnotist put the whammy on Mickey and made him sit silently in a chair.

"I was a little nervous about working in front of these people," the Scotsman observed, "because all of them are entertainers in their own right. But they seemed to be fascinated by what I was doing."

And no wonder. He regressed Kathryn Grayson to a "previous life" as the wife of an older man and the mother of three children in 19th century England. McGonigle said that the singer gave an

Tell Parents Your Plans
Drinking Doesn't Help!
Find a Single Man

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband has been stationed in Hawaii for the past six months but will soon be home. While he was away, I've been living with my parents and close to his. His people are very fond of me and are talking of selling their house so they can buy a larger one to accommodate two families.

I worry about this a great deal because, though I like my in-laws very much, I do want my own home. My husband assures me we won't live by ourselves, but I know he's an easy-going fellow and wouldn't hurt his parents' feelings for the world. If they do sell their home, I know we'll be talking into taking one with them.

CHARLOTTE
Dear Charlotte: Since your husband agrees with you on the advisability of having your own home, I think you're worrying overmuch. However, don't keep your plans a secret from the in-laws until your husband actually gets here. Let them know right now that you prefer being alone. Start looking around for houses and do your utmost to convince your husband's folks that they should not sell their home.

Trouble can often be avoided if frankness is the rule from the beginning. If you start shilly-shallying now, you'll be pushed into a situation very much against your will.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend and I just don't get along when we're drinking. Recently we had a quarrel after a party and he struck me. I broke our engagement but now he wants me to forget the incident and start all over. However, I'm thinking of the future. I don't want to be married to a man who beats me.

GLADYS
Dear Gladys: Have you ever considered anything as drastic as giving up drinking? Probably you'd be two very nice people if you'd stay away from liquor.

It's true, a man who hits a woman isn't worth very much, but then you're no bargain, either. Get wise to the things in life that are worth something; the parties you attend definitely are not.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Late last year I met a man who told me he was divorced, but has since admitted he is still married. His wife refuses to divorce him. Is there any way he can obtain a divorce without her consent?

My parents have learned of his status, and refuse to allow me out with him. I love him and know that some day, somewhere, we will be together.

ROSETTA
Dear Rosetta: The intricacies of divorce law are out of my department; you'd have to consult legal talent for that. The future doesn't look so rosy. Why not stick to unattached men? They're much safer.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What do you think of girls taking rides in cars with strange boys? I'm 15 and often when I'm with my girl friends we're offered rides. My girl friends accept but I never do. They think I'm silly and I do seem to be left out.

LORNA
Dear Lorna: Better be silly and left out than dead. Your girl friends are deliberately asking for trouble by accepting these invitations. Don't copy them; in fact, do your best to dissuade them from continuing this practice, which is as dangerous as toying with an atom bomb.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My wife and I separated several years ago because of my drinking, and were eventually divorced. She got custody of our son. I met a charming lady, a bit older than I, who thought, off stage, about May-and-November romances, and he replied stoutly:

"I have the same philosophy Tony did. Honest love can make up for a lot of differences between people — differences in age or shape or background."

When "The Most Happy Fella" became an immediate hit, the word went out:

"Who is this guy, Weede? Where did he learn to act?"

This rather mystified Weede, who asked mildly:

"What did they think I've been doing all these years in opera?"

Weede, a concert star for two decades, has sung with every major opera company in America, including the Metropolitan.

He is still puzzled that his appearance in a single Broadway show has brought him more national attention than two decades of singing operatic arias. But Weede is a mellow, cheerful artist quite content to take fame and fortune as they come.

He is a gentle optimist and a strong believer in the doctrine of "the helping hand."

Weede, left fatherless at 15, raised and sold vegetables to pay part of his tuition, but says that a helpful sister, who later became an educator herself, was "the mainspring of my career."

"We're all such self-made people today," he added, "and actually I don't think any of us are self-made."

"We all have a hard time, but there are always people who want to help us. I can't even count all the people who helped me along the way."

"Many people, of course, do have bad luck. But there are others, who, if they made a harder effort to improve their own gifts, would find it easier to go ahead."

"You must, first of all, prepare yourself and be ready for the helping hand when it comes. Otherwise, no one can help you."

If Weede sounds a bit like a teacher, well — that's what he is. In recent years he has aided a number of young singers to launch their careers by giving them voice lessons.

He believes that, once you accept a helping hand, your greatest privilege in life — as soon as you are able — is to extend one of your own to others.

Business to Be Exciting During June

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — When June comes tomorrow it ought to start an exciting 30 days for business.

The month opens with a test of the new payroll pay plan for auto workers—now idle in large numbers. The month will close with a showdown on the threat of a strike that now hangs over the steel industry.

All this comes on the heels of a spring that suffered from a split personality.

Part of the economy went booming right along and many a business and many an employee felt that times were good indeed. But the soft spots kept getting softer.

As June starts there's considerable dispute as to which will get the upper hand. Will weakness spread from industry to industry? Or will the hard spots in the economy pull the rest upon them in time?

June will see college graduates going to opportunities that seem fabulous to the depression generation. Industry competes for their services where 20 years ago the graduate searched hard for any job. Now they will start off making as much in a week as the older generation made in a month.

June will see retailers doing their best to work up love and tangible affection for Dad on Father's Day. Presents for the June bride, merchants hope, will be more generous than ever — and also for the crop of graduates.

But all won't be roses. The business world is at the name calling stage in the dispute over monetary policy — should money be cheap and credit easy or tight and interest rates high? Some think June will see a turning point in money management.

But most eyes will be on Detroit and Pittsburgh as the month starts. Tomorrow auto workers laid off in May, or to be laid off hereafter, will be eligible for supplemental unemployment benefits. In and out of the industry people will be interested in how it works out. How long the trust funds will last; how the laid off workers will take it if the extra payments aren't as large as they expect. And the nation will watch to see if the auto slowdown spreads further.

Monday the unions and the steel executives started bargaining. The month will tell whether there's a strike, a "reasonable" contract, or a new wage scale and price hike large enough to start an inflationary spiral in other industries.

There may be a lot of rare days this June.

State Righters Again Organize

BY DOUGLAS STARR

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippians for States Rights, a virtual rebirth of the 1948 Democratic party split, organized yesterday a platform based on what they termed loyalty to principle rather than to party.

About 250 cheering, applauding persons from throughout Mississippi agreed to qualify independent presidential electors in an attempt to create a foothold for bargaining with either the Republican or Democratic party for full states rights.

Charles W. M. McGowan of Jackson, a founder and key-note of the organizational meeting, offered the hope that if 100 unpledged, independent electors voted in a bloc, they could throw the election into the House of Representatives where each state has one vote.

THE BEST CROWD TO FOLLOW IS THE CROWD GOING TO CHURCH

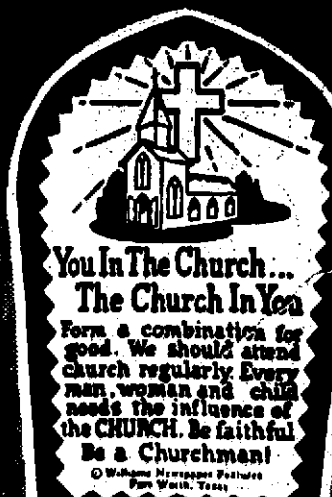

THERE'S NO EVIL THERE EXCEPT WHAT YOU CARRY WITH YOU

TO WHAT...

...true happiness, or to a state of disillusionment? Will the future be happier because they have a diploma? Unless they are prepared to take prosperity without pride and adversity without anguish... they are still unprepared.

What is crooked by nature can only be made straight by God.

If they have learned to do their duty instead of demanding their rights, they are learning God's way of life.

"IF GOD BE FOR YOU, WHO CAN BE AGAINST YOU...."

These Firms Pledge Their Unqualified Support to Him.
